MEDICAL REQUIREMENTS

There are no diseases endemic to the Pitcairn Islands, however, the small Pitcairn community is vulnerable to diseases that may be carried by visitors. Travellers who are unwell on arrival should attend their ship's doctor before arriving at Pitcairn.

It is expected that Captains will routinely declare the health of passengers and crew before landing on Pitcairn and the Medical Officer will require confirmation that the vessel has no cases of contagious disease aboard. The captain will email a copy of the ships Maritime Declaration of Health to the Medical Officer. The Pitcairn Island doctor will communicate with the ship's doctor. When there is doubt about fitness to land on Pitcairn, a brief medical examination may be required, including measurement of body temperature. These precautions may be varied according to information from WHO and the Pacific Public Health Surveillance Network.

Although yellow fever is not a disease risk in Pitcairn Islands (U. K.), the government requires travellers arriving from countries where yellow fever is present to provide proof of Yellow fever vaccination. Be sure routine vaccinations are up to date, including seasonal influenza, chickenpox, polio, Hepatitis A, measles/mumps/rubella (MMR) and diphtheria/pertussis/tetanus (DPT). Other vaccinations may be indicated for travellers with special health risks (check with your doctor). Waste management is basic and visitors should observe good personal sanitation.

ISPS Code

STATEMENT ON THE SECURITY MEASURES AND PROCEDURES TO BE APPLIED DURING A SHIP/PORT (PITCAIRN) INTERFACE GIVEN THAT PITCAIRN IS NOT A SIGNATORY TO SOLAS AND THEREBY DOES NOT COMPLY WITH THE SOLAS CHAPTER X1-2 AND THE ISPS CODE.

Statement

As Pitcairn is not a signatory to the SOLAS it is not subject to the requirements and Procedures prescribed by the ISPS Code. Therefore, in order for a ship to properly maintain its security, as prescribed in its Ship Security Plan (SSP), and in order for the ship to maintain a continuous register of port calls. To avoid incurring any unnecessary problems with Port State Control at subsequent ports of Call, it will be entirely incumbent on the ship to provide for its own security.

Background Guidance

The International Maritime Organisation (IMO) considered the security measures and Procedures to be applied during ship/port interface when either the ship or port facility do not comply with the requirements of chapter X1-2 and of the ISPS Code. The Committee determined that in such cases it is incumbent upon the ship to have already established, within the ship security plan (SSP), the details of the procedures and security measures the ship should apply when:

- It is at a port of a State which is not a Contracting Government;
- It is interfacing with a port or port facility which is not required to comply with chapter X1-2 and part A of the ISPS Code; in this respect, is only required for those ships which have not already included appropriate provisions to this end in the approved SSP.

The Committee recognised that a ship should be able to address most of the ships security activities required by section A/7 of the ISPS Code. Given the limited infrastructure and capabilities at Pitcairn it will be entirely down to the ship to provide for its own security, as set out in its plan. The Committee decided to recommend that in these unique cases, if the ship's approved SSP does not already include provisions as recommended in paragraph B/9.51 of the ISPS Code, the ship should attempt to take the following action, where possibly, bearing in mind the limited capabilities of Pitcairn:

1. Record the actions taken by the Company Security Officer (CSO) and/or Ship Security Officer (SSO) to establish contact with the Port Facility Security Officer (PFSO), and/or any other persons responsible for the security of the port, ship or platform being interfaced;
2. Record the security measures and procedures put in place by the ship, bearing in mind the security level set by the Administration and any other available security-related information; this can include the ship performing a Declaration of Security with itself.
3. Implement and maintain implement and maintain the security measures and procedures set out in the Ship's Security Plan and document these in the ship's register.
